

DRAWING AMENDMENT

The Examiner disapproved proposed formal black-and-white drawings that were submitted with a previously filed Response to the Final Office Action, because the official draftsman objected to solid black shading in Figures 5A through 6. In Appendix A to this paper, we are submitting a full set of black-and-white drawings without the solid black shading. Additionally, two other changes have been made to the drawings (as compared to the previously-submitted black-and-white drawings). First, the last sentence from the mouth of the person depicted in Figure 4 is now "Would you like to play a game?" Second, in Figure 5B the rooks shown on the telephone screen under "GAME MODE ON" now correspond to the two different sets of chess pieces, one white and one with angled hash marks (instead of a shadow).

Objections to the color drawings filed with the original Application and to the black-and-white drawings submitted with the Response to the Final Office Action are believed to have been obviated by the drawings filed herewith.
